Pontiac Picked As Pace Car For Riverside Grand Prix

Scott Robinson of Scott Robinson Pontiac, Torrance, will be watching next Sunday's Riverside Grand Prix race from a most unusual point of view.

He will be more interested in the first lap than the last lap—and every race fan knows this is completely backwards for the last lap tells the winner.

There's a reason for this first-lap interest: it will be paced by a sparkling new '64 Pontiac Grand Prix, just like those being sold in the local dealership.

For the third year in a row, Pontiac's Grand Prix has been selected as pace car for the biggest race in the West because of its appropriate name plus the fact that the car epitomizes the glamor associated with Grand Prix racing both here and in Europe.

When the winner flashes across the finish line for the last time, he'll not only be some $12,000 richer but he'll also be the new owner of this high-performance Pontiac as part of his winnings.

The pace car is being donated to the winner by the Los Angeles Metropolitan Pontiac Dealers Association, members of which made a special effort to make the car available despite a flood of unfilled orders which have greeted the '64 Pontiac introduction this week.

Dealers report that acceptance of the Grand Prix, along with the new Pontiac Tempest and other models in the line, has been beyond expectations. This follows the unusual acceptance by the public of the Grand Prix for 1963, which, with 36 per cent of sales of all cars in the luxury sports car market, contributed largely to Pontiac's winning third place in sales nationally again this year.

The practice of presenting the pace car to the race winner is a tradition begun at the famed Indianapolis 500-mile race years ago. When many of Europe's top-ranked drivers came to Riverside during the past two much or more interest in learning that the pace car was included as top prize as they did in the amount of money to be awarded the winner.

The Grand Prix pace car is a 306-horsepower glamor car, with bucket seats, between-the-seats console, and, as the company says, "has a new exclusiveness in performance and prestige that is unmatched by other models." The '64 Grand Prix utilizes fresh new styling to convey the suggestion of longer, lower and wider appearance, and its profile is high lighted by a new thin roof line, a crisp front-end styling treatment, and a host of other design refinements.
